

mountains all day long, but no signs of the rebels could be discovered. Quite a good deal of excitement was caused by the discovery of what seemed to be a small barricade but what turned out to be nothing more than a dead tree.

Tomorrow morning Captain Zeigler and his men will climb the mountains and spread out so as to cover the whole territory. They will go up as far as possible and close in together sweeping everything before them.

Captain Zeigler thinks it is only a matter of a very few hours before Wilcox and his gang will be taken dead or alive.

NOTES OF THE DAY.

Bipikane's gun was found on the Waialae beach yesterday by a native.

G. Carson Kenyon was arrested early Saturday evening on a charge of conspiracy.

Three Chinese and one Portuguese were arrested on Saturday for being without passes.

It was reported last night that William Greig had been captured. The report turned out to be untrue.

Charles Warren, who was captured on Saturday night, was formerly first lieutenant of the royal guards.

A Government stenographer is on duty at the telephone office. He hears everything that passes over the wires.

A half-white woman, who lives in Palolo Valley, stated positively yesterday that she had not seen Nowlein or any of his men.

J. L. Omer has been heard from at Chicago, where he is said to be superintending the construction of a new gun for field service.

William Pua, one of Wilcox's men now in charge, has a bad wound in one of his hands. He was shot on last Monday night.

Sunday was the quietest day at Manoa since the trouble. Absolutely no work was done. The men were given a long-needed rest.

Part of the plans of the rebels was to blow up both telephone offices with dynamite, in order to prevent notification being given of the uprising.

Henry Bertelmann's house at Waikiki shows evidence of rough use. Most of the glass windows are broken. At present the house is unoccupied.

The tents of Company F were not pitched last night on account of the dampness of the ground. The men crowded into a house and slept as best they could.

Quite a number of shots were heard on Punchbowl early yesterday morning. Some Portuguese stationed there fired a volley at a moving bush, mistaken for one of the enemy.

A number of ladies are using the Central Union Church range to prepare food for the sharpshooters and other men who are shouldering guns for the plucky little Republic of Hawaii.

The Citizens' Guard at the Pali Saturday night, were kindly remembered by Mrs. S. M. Damon, who drove to the place herself and deposited a most bountiful collection of good things.

The guard at C. A. Brown's corner, under Captain Lorenzen, are deeply grateful to Mrs. Brown, who has kept them supplied with a bountiful supply of coffee and sandwiches at every change of the watch.

A report was sent in on Saturday afternoon that two natives were seen in the hills back of Judd street. Men were sent after them. They returned and reported that Joaquin Miller and a native guide were the cause of the trouble.

Theresa Cartwright was brought from Moanalua yesterday by Captain Campbell, who was detailed for the purpose. She was brought before the authorities and questioned. She will be kept under the eyes of the police.

Oscar Herald, the musician, was called before the marshal Saturday and given a straight talking to, regarding promiscuous statements reflecting on the Government said to have been made by him. Herald was considerably frightened over the interview.

A party of natives were hiding in the brush in the rear of F. A. Schaefer's Nuuanu street residence last night. One of them was seen and fired upon by the guard. A squad under Captain Murray will go out this morning to institute a thorough search.

Captain McStocker has given orders to the guards to allow Chester A. Doyle's brake, with the red light, to pass without question. All guards are cautioned to make sure of Mr. Doyle's presence on the brake before allowing it to go through the lines.

Palau and Charles Warren were arrested near Koko Head about 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, by two of Captain Larsen's men. They were brought in by Captain Larsen just before dark. These men are said to be lieutenants of Nowlein. They deny any knowledge of the rebel leader, and said they had been in the neighborhood of Koko Head since Tuesday last, engaged in fishing.

A large number of rubber and oil coats was purchased by the Government on Saturday for use of the military. The demand exhausted the stocks of Waterhouse & Co., Grinbaum & Co., and T. H. Davies & Co.

A telephone message was received at police headquarters during the early part of Saturday evening from Waianae, stating that some natives were seen making their way towards the Waianae mountains, between Ewa and Waianae. Deputy-Sheriff Sheldon was instructed to investigate and report.

At midnight Saturday night Deputy-Marshal Brown and Robert Parker's party were near the head of Manoa Valley. They were pushing onward on the trail of Wilcox, who is said, by a native prisoner brought in during the evening from that locality, to be in the mountains above the point now occupied by Captain Zeigler's company.

Captain Zeigler's company captured a native in Manoa Valley Saturday afternoon. When questioned by the Marshal he admitted seeing Wilcox, Greig, Lot Lane and Marshall. He said he was one of a party of twenty under command of young Marshall. The prisoner is a painter by trade, and is well-known in Honolulu. His outfit consisted of a blanket, bag and tin bucket. A bottle of gin, half-filled, was found in the sack.

Shortly after midnight last night a Japanese was arrested for being without a pass. W. H. Kealakai and C. B. Maile were also arrested on a charge of conspiracy. The former is an ex-lieutenant of the police; the latter being prominently known as a member of the legislature under the monarchy, and connected with the infamous lottery and opium bills. Maile is now doing business at the fish market.

An ugly rumor is afloat about George Beckley, the purser of the Kinau. News came by the Hall Saturday that he is said to have made statements along the route of the Kinau during her last trip, that it might be some time before the vessel was seen again, as there would likely be trouble in Honolulu soon. It is claimed, also, that he knew of the gathering at Bertelmann's place and failed to report it to the authorities. The matter will probably be investigated on the return of the Kinau.

J. W. Pipikane, who is supposed to have taken a prominent part in the late attempt to overthrow the Government, and who, it is claimed, was serving as a lieutenant under Sam Nowlein, together with an old decrepit native named Moepali, surrendered to Joe Puni and another of Captain Larsen's men Saturday afternoon at Wailupe. He said that Nowlein had such few followers he thought there was no use fighting, and consequently concluded to give himself up.

More Arrests.

Four men, Pehu, Kahilau, Pila and Henry Enoka, were arrested at Wailupe yesterday afternoon between 3 and 4 o'clock by Captain Parker. These persons have been in hiding since the fighting began, fearing death from both sides. The same old tiresome story was told; they had been forced into the ranks of the rebels by Wilcox, but had made their escape the first day. They witnessed the fight at Waikiki, but were emphatic in their denials when accused of taking part. One of the men is charged with harboring Robert Palau and Charles Warren several days previous to the arrest of those men. No arms of any kind were found upon the prisoners. Seventeen men were also arrested at Moiliili by Captain Parker, charged with being members of the rebel party. They will be brought in today.

Patrolman Aass Injured.

While some of the mounted patrol were returning from Manoa Valley Saturday afternoon with the thirty-eight horses under Deputy Marshal Brown and Robert Parker, the animals became frightened and ran away. Patrolman Aass was riding one of the horses, and in attempting to stop the fleeing animals his horse became unmanageable and ran away with him. At a narrow place on the road a hack driven by Jim Cartwright was met. The animal ridden by Aass struck one of the rear wheels of the hack. Aass was thrown violently to the ground and had one leg and two ribs broken. The hack was partially turned over and Jim Cartwright pitched out, but fortunately he sustained little injury. A portion of the harness was broken. The runaway horses were finally captured and brought to the station in safety.

Wilcox's Military Coat Found.

Wilcox's coat was found Saturday near the pass leading to Tantalus.

Everything pointed to a hurried exit of the owner from the place he had occupied. The coat was resting upon some bushes, with the sleeves half-turned as if removed in great haste. It was shown to Hanapau, the man who gave himself up to the soldiers yesterday morning. He immediately recognized it, and remarked: "Auwe oe ka coat o Willkoki."

While men of Company F were scouring the mountains on Saturday a distillery was discovered in a very secluded spot. Upon examination, it was found that the place had been lately occupied. Hats, clothes, remnants of furniture, two new axes, spades and other articles were found strewn about on the ground.

The soldiers left the ruins behind them.

Price of Davies' Infamy.

According to the confession made by Captain Davies, he was to receive $10,000 for landing arms for the rebels. There was to be 1000 stands delivered, distributed at Waialae, Waianae and Kahuku. Only about 300 rifles are thought to have been landed at Rosa's place near Waialae. Davies received $20 on account and, of course will be out the balance of the price. It is understood that W. H. Rickard negotiated the deal and paid Davies the money. It is also hinted that "Major" Seward purchased the munitions of war, while on a recent visit to the Coast, and that "Opium" Brown undertook the safe landing of them on Hawaiian soil. Seward has not been located and arrested as yet.

Diversions of Sharpshooters.

The Sharpshooters have been well remembered by their lady friends during their stay at the Central Union barracks. Saturday forenoon Miss Carrie Castle gave them a call and favored them with the "Moonlight Sonata." Miss Axteill sang "Annie Laurie" and the "Last Rose of Summer." Mr. Wall gave several selections on the violin. Sergeant McLean presided as pianist and Commissioner Marsden showed the crowd how to pick silver dollars from the side of the house. The ladies have kept the men well supplied with food, the boys stating that the apple sauce and strawberries are especially worthy of mention.

A Serious Accident.

E. C. Crandall, a member of the Citizens' Guard, was brought in from Wailupe last night about 11 o'clock in an ambulance. Early in the evening a telephone message was sent in stating that a horse had fallen and had caught his rider underneath. The man proved to be Crandall. The extent of his injuries could not be ascertained last night. It was reported that he had fractured a bone in his right leg besides receiving internal injuries.

Shooting at the Pali.

Another scare message was sent in last night. It was to the effect that firing was going on at the Pali. About eleven o'clock it was learned that some figures were seen crossing a ridge from the direction of Kaneohe and were fired on by the guards. They fired fourteen shots, receiving four shots from the other end in reply.
